Sir Galahad, the noblest knight of King Arthur's Round Table, was given the leadership in the quest for the Holy Grail. The Grail or cup from which Christ drank at the Last Supper symbolized everything noble and true for which the knights strove. Galahad was set apart from the other knights because of his wonderful strength and purity.

As students of St. Columbkille's we too have been set apart. We are privileged to receive a Catholic education which plays a most important part in our search for happiness—our one great quest. Friendly cooperation with teachers and fellow students in classes and in extra-curricular activities, as well as good sportsmanship in athletics, is the basic training for every Co-Duke Crusader who seeks to find his own Holy Grail—happiness in this life and in the next.

In recognition of the many and great sacrifices our faculty has made for us, we wish to place our humble yearbook in Mary's hands, asking her to receive it as our gift to her and begging her to intercede for our devoted teachers at the throne of her Divine Son.

All men are born with an insatiable yearning to regain God's gift of knowledge, lost to us through the fall of our first parents. Learning is but one of the steps which leads us to our eternal goal—Truth.

Each man, to possess the light of knowledge, must discover the best way to use his abilities, so that in his own quest for learning he will find ultimate happiness for others as well as for himself.

This quest involves long years of study and labor, and only those who persevere will succeed. Just as a knight was required to prove himself by heroic feats, so a graduate must have passed the hurdles of learning.

How Co-Duke crusaders pursued this quest is portrayed in the next section.

Quest for Learning

Monsignor Dunn blesses two graduates, Yolanda Yourell and Donald McDonnell.

"School days!" What memories will these words awake a few years hence! Now the hours and days slip by quickly, each crammed with a variety of happy functions. We have preserved some of these memories here with the hope that the spirit of good fellowship cultivated through St. Columbkille's many activities will never be lost.

Membership in organizations, such as the Student council, Science, Library, Camera, and Glee clubs, might be said to be a roundtable of treasured associations.

A spirit of apostolic zeal was promoted by still other societies—as the Legion of Mary, the Altar Boy society, and the Catholic Students' Mission crusade.

May the "Quest for Good Fellowship," begun at St. Columbkille's, lead all Co-Duke crusaders on to everlasting union with God and one another in heaven.

LEGION OF DECENCY ratings are under discussion by senior delegates Michael Varvel, Suzanne Addyman, Thomas Grace, and Barbara Frank. St. Columbkille's Student council adopted a Crusade for Decency in entertainment as its year's project.

PANELISTS in junior religion class are Helen Cullen, Steve Pauly, and Joan Theisen. The Student council appointed various students to discuss timely topics in each religion class.

ORGANIZING their panel are sophomores Karen Palm, Jo Ann Roidl, and Edward Dalsing. Much enthusiasm was registered by such panels.

RESEARCH for a teen-age religion discussion is conducted by Kenneth Daack, Roberta Roscamp, and Mary Ann Fleckenstein, freshmen. Among the topics were dating, clothes, smoking, and drinking.

CONFRONTED with the task of editing a yearbook, Barbara Frank and Michael Varvel (pictured) found it was no easy job.

One advantage on their side was that the art work could be turned over to experienced hands. Barbara's father did all the lettering and designing, while Brenda Postel, a former student at St. Columbkille's, did the division page sketches.

The editors selected a crusade theme to coincide with the Crusade for Decency adopted by the SCHS Student council this year.

The Bwan—Blue and White Annual

ODD JOBS, such as delivering film and Bwan pictures, took up Ralph Kremer's time. Pictured with Ralph are Carol Erschen, typist, and Dolores Waldbillig, who assisted with make-up.

THE YEAR'S HIGHLIGHTS in picture and story constitute a school annual. In-trusted with the written presentation for the 1958 Bwan were Judy Theis, Dorothy Heri, and Charles Plamondon.

BWAN BUSINESS EXECUTIVE, William Daack, looks over advertising receipts. This year, 18 pages of ads were collected when the seniors went out in the fall.

Other sources of income consisted of Bwan subscriptions and patrons. Also, the seniors contributed a half page class ad.

"All in all, Bwan finances are in good shape," Bill reports.

This year the yearbook was printed in Dubuque instead of in Dallas, Texas, as in the past three years.

Bwan Business Department

CAPTAINS locating business prospects for ads are Charles Hemmer, Thomas Grace, and Jeanette O'Hea. Each captain had a group of six seniors under him who worked in teams. Each team was assigned to particular downtown districts to solicit ads.

COUNTING money for The Bwan treasury are captains Mary Ann Donovan, Ronald Ruden, Constance Cannon, and Barbara Blake. In addition to cash receipts, unpaid contracts, were filed. Bills were mailed to such firms at the end of the year.

The Blue and White

DEADLINES mean that all articles must be ready for the printer. Typing stories are Thomas Sloan, Carol Kane, Dennis Steinwand, and Dianne Kurt. Checking copy are Larry Wolff and Richard Downey.

GATHERING and writing material is the chief concern here of John Oberman, Jean Martin, Helen Cullen, and David McLaughlin.

CIRCULATION chores occupy the time of Eleanor Thompson, Marilyn Hohnecker, business manager; Patricia Beitzel, and Sharon Maury.

Library Club

STAMPING books in and out are Linda Dolphin, Janet Polfer, and Mary Ann Erhart. A daily reminder of "overdue," "due today," and "due tomorrow" books was posted in each assembly by faithful student librarians such as these sophomore girls. Members of the club rotated in waiting on book borrowers before school and during noonhour.

Book repairing was done by Dorothy Jochum, Sandra Fitzpatrick, and Mary Kay Schmitt.

TEEN-AGE book club officers sorting their monthly orders are Carol Mohr, Jo Ann Roidl, Joyce Padden, and Bonnie Schmitt. This new club proved to be very popular among sophomore readers.

RETURNING books to the shelves are Sandra Schneider, Karen Plamondon, Judy Ruden, and Anita McCarthy. Familiarity with the Dewey Decimal system was developed from this experience.

Mission Crusaders

PACKING toys and clothes for a Christmas mission box are senior CSMC officers—Michael Varvel, Constance Cannon, Gayle Hamel, and Donald Carroll.

All members of each class belong to the CSMC. Voluntary offerings for the missions is the common practice in each assembly.

MISSION COLLECTIONS are being totaled by Joyce Padden, Charles Kurt, and James Brady, sophomore CSMC officers.

Legion of Mary

EVERY TUESDAY Legion of Mary meetings were held at 1:30. Monsignor Dunn, spiritual director, presided, and Mrs. Clifford Healey, president, conducted the meetings. Other officers shown are Dorothy Heri, secretary; Carol Erschen, vice president, and Dolores Waldbillig, treasurer.

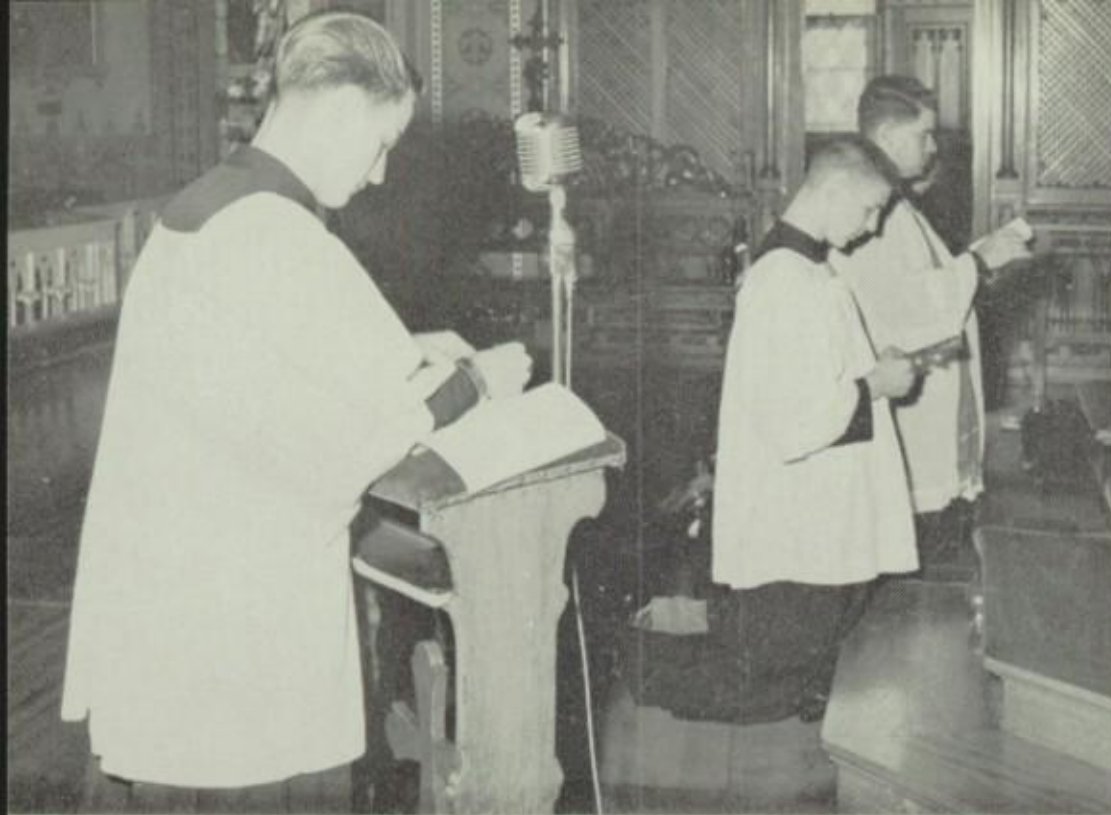

CATHOLIC LITERATURE was distributed to various institutions by Legion of Mary members—Phyllis Pitz, Gayle Hamel, Yolanda Yourell, Beverly Williamson, and Mary Alys Quinlan.

RECITING the rosary are Barbara Saefkow, Mary Ann Donovan, Constance Cannon, Mary Wallace, Mary Ann Wolbers, Mary Jo Mohr, Mary Noel, Darlene Leifker, Mary Collins, and Mary Kay Corbett.

CATECHISTS, Carol Erschen, Suzanne Addyman, and Barbara Blake, instruct children after school as a Legion spiritual work of mercy.

CATHOLIC YOUTH WEEK, Oct. 27-Nov. 3, was climaxed at SCHS by a special Holy Hour. Richard Carroll '58 is shown leading prayers as the student body answers. Acolyte attending Father Hawes is Joseph Link '58. Many students went to Mass and Holy Communion throughout the week. Opening the week, a high Mass was held at noon for the entire school.

A talk on teen-age delinquent problems was given on Thursday by Alois Vogt, Dubuque probation officer.

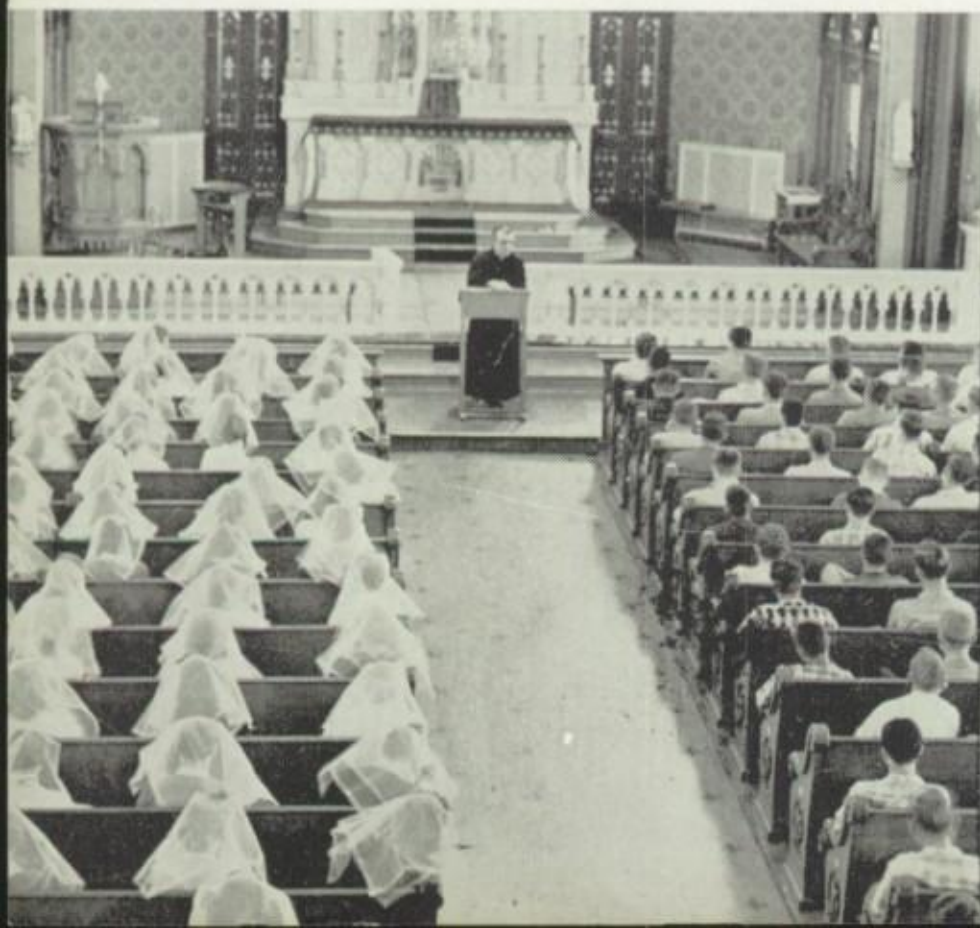

Special Spiritual Days

RECOLLECTION day was held Sept. 13. It was conducted by Father Thomas Carpenter, a Co-Duke graduate of 1949, shown in the picture below. The purpose of this annual day at the beginning of the school year is to orientate everyone to the correct values a Catholic student should possess.

Four conferences were given, and opportunity was provided for spiritual reading and prayer.

RETREAT was held April 23-25. Another former St. Columbkille, Father Norbert Sharon of the Missionary Servants of the Most Holy Trinity, conducted the exercises. Father Norbert is located in Alabama among the Negroes and poor whites.

He is pictured here autographing the retreat schedules of Nancy Scharff '61, Mary Ann Donovan '58, Kenneth Hilby '59, and Donald Hartman '60.

MARY ANN DONOVAN, May Queen

Camera Club

"THAT'S ONE OF MINE!" This is what Camera club members could say about their many pictures in the 1958 Bwan. Practically all the pictures of small groups throughout the book were taken by juniors David Remy, Thomas Sloan, and Richard Downey. Dennis Steinwand '59, not pictured, also is responsible for some pictures, along with Kenneth Daack and Edward Downey, frosh cubs.

Speaking of credit for assisting with the year-book production, Bwan editors wish to mention John Martin '60 who acted as an errand boy delivering proof to the printer, his father.

Science Club

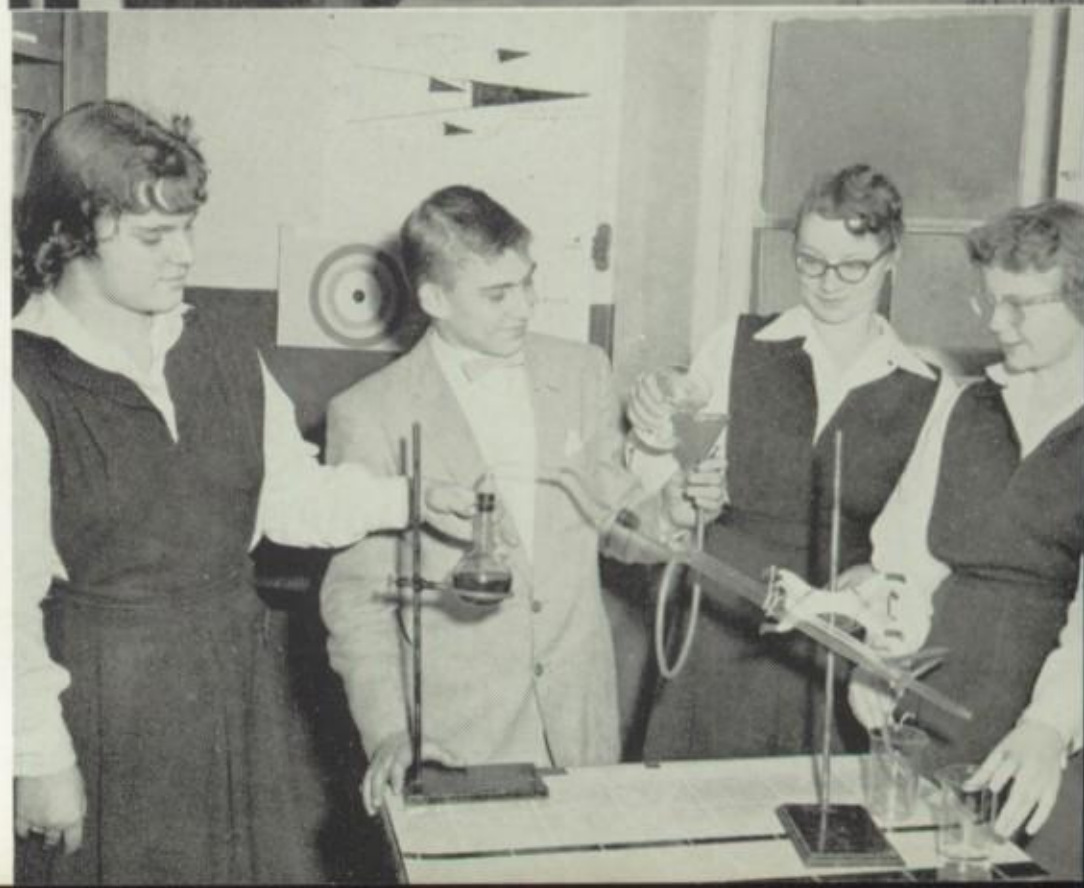

NEW SCIENCE BOOKS were avidly examined by the freshman general science class. Pictured are Thomas Callahan and Gretchen Dye, who were active in Science club affairs. The club organized programs and displayed bulletin boards of scientific interest.

After such research as pictured here, several panels were held. Among the most popular discussions were conservation, progress of the airplane, the work of Edison, and the IGY year.

EXPERIMENTS, both inside and outside of class, challenged Science club members such as this group—Veronica Barth, Robert Schiessl, Sally Spoden, and Dianne Faust. The science room was never empty either at noon or after school.

Subjects of special practical value to boys and girls were selected. "How to Plant Crops on a Hill" was an example of the boys' experiments, while stain removal and soaps were demonstrated by the girls.

"Think-it-through" pictures and a "Quiz Corner" stimulated the budding scientists.

Athletics have always been the champion of good sportsmanship.

In medieval times, playful tests of skill and enjoyment, known as jousts, were engaged in. A strict code of fair play and honor was maintained. These mock battles were intended, moreover, to develop prowess for actual combat.

Modern American sports have a like purpose, although the skill and experience derived is not usually followed up by serious pugilistic contests. Rather, from engaging in athletics a more lasting benefit is derived—manliness and all that it implies.

Co-Duke grid, cage, and diamond crusaders have accepted the challenge flung out by medieval knights. They, too, have fought with valor and skill. Whether the season brought defeat or victory matters little. What matters is that they are now more equipped for the battle of life.

Quest for Good Sportsmanship

Willie

Take it easy summer don't get too much this summer and watch those babes that are too hot to handle. Hit your balls a mile and visit Dick at Baltown daily. Don't get drunk too much and watch it when you inhale those cigars. Don't beat up your mom and dad this summer and don't waste your rod on ~~any~~ ~~any~~. Just remember my advise and don't do anything I wouldn't do this summer and that isn't much.

Whee

Willie
